

General Manager – Meat Processing and Trading

- Major integrated protein supply chain business
- Senior leadership role
- Significant expansion plans

The Wellard Group operates one of the largest and most successful protein supply chains in Australia with a well-established international customer base. The company is a leader in broadacre farming, livestock production, livestock exports, shipping and domestic and offshore meat processing. More information on the group is available on www.wellard.com.au.

Significant growth has led to the creation of the position of General Manager, Meat Processing and Trading. In this exciting role you will lead the operations and expansion of the meat processing and trading business, both domestic and international. You will provide leadership to a dedicated and diverse team across the supply chain including livestock procurement, animal processing and domestic and international marketing. You will also identify, analyse and implement new business initiatives to build business and maximise the supply chain.

As the successful applicant, it is envisaged you will possess the following:

- A proven management track record in a vertically integrated protein supply chain agribusiness
- Highly developed commercial skills and financial insight
- A clear thinking, self motivated and results driven approach
- Proven leadership skills, with an inclusive management style, in leading, coaching and mentoring procurement, production and sales teams
- Experience in the evaluation, acquisition and integration of new businesses

The role is based in Fremantle WA and reports to the Chief Executive, and a very competitive remuneration package will be negotiated with the successful candidate.
