

Purchasing Officer

- Meat industry/FMCG
- Excellent career progression
- Sydney

A fantastic opportunity has arisen for someone looking to join a well established, fast growing, professional meat and supply chain company. Exporting globally, as well as supplying the Australian and New Zealand markets, our client is looking for a Purchasing Officer to join their young and enthusiastic team servicing a major international brand within the FMCG space.

As Purchasing Officer you will develop a comprehensive understanding of the beef industry including market trends and pricing to competitively buy according to strategy and benchmarking expectations. You will build and maintain excellent relationships with suppliers, packers and grinders, demonstrating superior stakeholder management and negotiation skills to ensure the reliable and efficient delivery of quality product. Working closely with the Supply Chain Manager you will also directly assist in every aspect of the purchasing department's day to day operations.

The successful candidate will be a highly motivated self-starter who can work well within a team environment, have excellent communication skills and a good eye for detail. Excellent organisational skills and a sound understanding the broader agricultural sector are essential.

If you are looking to begin your career in the meat industry or extend on your existing experience with a fast growing, dynamic young business, offering fantastic opportunities for career progression, please contact Dave Compton on 02 9006 1214 for more details.
