

Stories of Australian Country People

This is a book of stories about Australian country people; stories about their lives, past and present, about their hopes and dreams and their joys and sorrows.

This is a book of stories about children, young people and families. It's about older Australians who have stories and tales from days-gone-by. This is a book of stories about ordinary Australian country people who through their lives have brought encouragement and challenge, joy, hope and love to others.

This is a book of stories about the Australian landscape and the impact it has on the people who rely on it for life and a livelihood.

Hopefully some stories in this book will make you laugh and others will make you want to cry.

This is a book of stories about Australian country people who live mainly in small communities. Arising from a desire for a distinctive lifestyle and with mutual respect and friendship, these people are intrinsically connected throughout a big country.

$45 per book

Printed and published in Australia, this beautifully presented coffee table style book showcases stories and photos of every day country people, the bush and the spectacular landscapes of the Kimberley and Pilbara of Western Australia, and regions throughout Queensland and the Northern Territory. All stories have been written by Helen, and in her quiet, respectful and observant manner; she has brilliantly captured on paper people's personalities through an intuitive and charming writing style.

Lyle and Helen express that, "This book, Stories of Australian Country People, focuses on people, and we want it to give readers a sense of life in the bush. Each story is unique. We believe the stories in this book reflect that uniqueness, bringing people's character to life".
