

HR & WHS Manager

- Corporate agribusiness
- Brisbane

Here is a rare opportunity to play a major role in the success and growth of a major Australian agribusiness with a very strong brand and international backing. The company has a broad geographic reach in rural Australia through its large portfolio of cattle stations, with people being the core to their success.

The HR & WHS Manager will play a leading role in the provision of a broad range of Workplace Health & Safety and Human Resource functions to support the achievement of the company's business goals and driving best practice. This will include:

- Providing advice and proactive leadership in WHS across the company, developing a culture of safety amongst staff at all levels, while ensuring WHS compliance within legislative and statutory frameworks
- Managing Workers Compensation services, including compliance, and effective Rehabilitation and Return to work programs
- Improving organisational and employee effectiveness and efficiency by implementing strategies, policies and process to attract, retain and develop highly skilled and motivated employees in a positive workplace culture

Bringing a personable, proactive presence to this role, the ideal candidate will feel equally confident and comfortable on a NT cattle station or the boardroom. You should be a hands-on team leader with an inclusive and engaging approach, with realistic expectations of the implementation and management of WHS and HR policies and procedures in rural and remote locations.
