

Lamb Value Chain Manager

- National Role
- Reporting to the CEO
- Opportunity to be based in Melbourne, Geelong or Dubbo (flexible)

Hassad Australia, a leading Australian Agribusiness company is recruiting a Lamb Value Chain Manager to join the team.

The key function of the Lamb Value Chain Manager is to develop unique market-driven supply chains that leverage Hassad Australia's scale and capability in the lamb industry. Specifically, this will involve:

1. identification of market requirements for specific premium customers;
2. working with Hassad Australia farm managers, meat marketing team, genetic suppliers, processors, researchers, customers and others to develop the market-specific supply chains; and
3. working with external farmers to expand the supply base.

The major challenges for this role will be the development of premium markets without precedent in the sector, whilst maintaining profitability of the production systems.

The successful applicant will have:

- Knowledge of lamb value chain design concepts, including best practice design approaches for developing new agri food value chains;
- Post Graduate qualification in research, B Agri/Eco, Ag Sci, Marketing or similar;
- 5 years plus of hands-on experience in direct Agricultural production;
- Experience in corporate agribusiness in similar roles

To apply for the role, submit your resume and cover letter to hr.au@hassad.com.au or alternatively call Human Resources on 0458 739 841.

Applications will close 8 December 2017.
