

Manager Liveringa Station

- Exciting Growth & Change Opportunity
- Operational, Commercial & Development Leadership Role
- Kimberley Based

Hancock Prospecting Pty Ltd (HPPL) has been rapidly developing a portfolio of cattle station, beef production and dairy assets over the last 3 years. This includes significant investments in established businesses such as S. Kidman & Co Limited and Bannister Downs Dairy, along with the development of the wagyu beef brand 2GR. Liveringa Station is a large East Kimberley Cattle Station situated 250km inland from Broome. Liveringa operates an extensive beef cattle breeding operation, accredited feedlot and irrigated farming operation and plays an important role in HPPL's northern cattle supply chain strategy.

Based in the Kimberley and reporting to the Regional Manager WA, you will be responsible for leading the production and commercial activities of Liveringa Station. This includes driving the day-to-day performance of the station including breeding, farming and feedlot operations. You will also be responsible for developing and driving the delivery of business plans, budgets and capital programmes - reporting to the executive team of Hancock Agriculture on performance to plan.

A key focus of this role will be the ongoing development of Liveringa Station across all operations, you will work with the executive team of Hancock Agriculture to identify and develop and execute capital plans that are strategically sound and deliver tangible benefits to HPPL's northern beef cattle supply chain. You will also work with HPPL's corporate team to ensure that effective working relationships are maintained with traditional owners and other stakeholders.

Your success in this role will be built upon the strength of your knowledge, experience and capability in beef cattle business management. In particular you can demonstrate a track record of success developing and delivering major capital programmes with complex stakeholder and compliance issues. You will also have the necessary leadership qualities to manage a team through a period of growth & change including the implementation of new systems, processes and practices to drive improvements in production, quality, health & safety, and animal welfare.
