

Beef Livestock Workers, Canada

Southern Alberta, Canada

Canada is renowned for its high quality beef production. The Canadian beef industry contributes $33 billion to the Canadian economy annually. The success of the industry relies on healthy, well cared for cattle.

Australian cattle workers are highly regarded in Canada, having developed a strong reputation for their livestock management skills and horsemanship, and being able to readily adapt to what is regarded as a similar culture.

Our client, a family company based in southern Alberta operates 8 sites and is the largest feedlot operation in Canada. They have multiple vacancies for people with livestock handling experience to work in various roles on finishing feedlots.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Receive and document new cattle arrivals
- Tag, vaccinate and assess animal health and welfare
- Record and document accurate cattle records.
- Monitor food and water supplies
- Sort and move cattle
- Ration preparation and feeding
- Operate and maintain machinery
- Supervise and train employees

REQUIREMENTS

- Prior experience in some aspect of cattle livestock rearing, feeding or handling is essential
- Tertiary qualifications in animal husbandry or agriculture will be highly regarded but is not essential
- The ability to ride a horse will be highly regarded

Work visas will be arranged free of charge for selected applicants and airfares met for travel to Canada for those who stay for an agreed qualifying period.

This is an exciting opportunity which will appeal to someone at the outset of their career who seeks to gain “hands on” livestock management or those who wish to gain further experience in a different and exciting environment.

TO APPLY

Send your resume to resume@agri.com.au

or for more information contact Ben or Brett on 02 9223 9944