

NEW BRITAIN PALM OIL LIMITED

Cattle Senior Assistant Manager

New Britain Palm Oil Limited (a wholly owned subsidiary of Sime Darby Plantations) is the largest private sector employer and is the leading palm oil plantation and processing company in Papua New Guinea. The company manages 40,000 hectares of intensive oil palm located near Kimbe, on the Island Province of West New Britain. The Company is dynamic and rapidly growing, offering the opportunity of an exciting career. It seeks to appoint a qualified, self-reliant, resourceful and dedicated professional to an expanding management team in West New Britain.

The successful applicant will have the following attributes:

- A Degree in Agriculture or Animal Production.
- Minimum of 5 years work experience within the cattle industry.
- Effective communication and staff management skills.
- An ability to work within a team environment and train and mentor employees.
- Sound animal husbandry, pasture management skills and feedlot experience.
- Mechanical ability and experience.
- An ability to prepare and work to budgets.
- An innovative outlook with the ability to improve work practices and embrace change.

This position is aimed at a young, career minded individual who will enjoy the challenge of an overseas posting. The Cattle Senior Assistant Manager will head up a team of 70 employees, report to the Plantation Manager and be responsible for the daily running of the 4000 head vertically integrated cattle operation from breeding through feedlot to abattoir and retail sales. Experience in an intensively managed beef cattle production system with skills in pregnancy testing and artificial insemination would be desirable but is not essential. The successful applicant will have experience with cattle management software and previous overseas experience will be viewed favourably.

An attractive remuneration package includes:

- A substantial annual salary including performance related bonus.
- 37 working days annual leave and airfares to and from the place of recruitment.
- Free medical care.
- Free accommodation and utilities.
- Generous education allowance.
