

Non-Executive Director x 2

The Organisation

Lawson Grains is a leading fully integrated (row-cropping) agricultural business headquartered in Albury NSW. They manage approximately 100,000 hectares of land located in 10 aggregations spread across Western Australian and New South Wales, and produces over 200,000 tonnes of grain annually. Lawson Grains is subject to a sale process, pending FIRB approval it will form part of a portfolio of Institutional investments managed by New Forests on behalf of Alberta Investment Management Corporation. The new ownership structure, has resulted in an opportunity for two new Non-Executive Directors to join the Board of Lawson Grains, to provide strategic insight and direction as well as guiding future growth opportunities. It is anticipated that one of newly appointed Non-Executive Directors may also include serving as Chair of the Board.

The Background

The Board is seeking to consist of Directors with the following industry experience:

- Agriculture;
- Strong operational understanding of large-scale production assets, and/or;
- Agricultural commodity marketing and associated supply chains;
- Finance - with specific experience in the agricultural sector;
- Investment Management - Experience in funds management for institutional investors, including fully integrated operations, governance, ESG and Risk;
- Other - Relevant alternative industry experience other than above, including in-depth knowledge of strategy, markets, competitors, operational issues, technology, and regulatory concerns.

The Requirements

- Technical knowledge and Skills - Either agricultural economics or agricultural science qualifications and experience;
- Deep understanding of the Australian grain industry and value chain, with relevant networks therein. This includes experience in managing, and deep knowledge of, the Australian political sphere around the agricultural sector;
- Broad knowledge of agriculture dynamics and opportunities beyond grain production and marketing;
- Appreciation of the opportunities within the agriculture sector linked to carbon markets and sustainable agriculture more broadly;
- Knowledge and experience in AgTech would also be viewed favourably.

We are supportive of diversity and inclusion and welcome candidates from diverse backgrounds.
