

Genetics and Operations Manager – The Repro Group

Are you wanting to work in a dynamic team, in a small yet agile business, contributing to the development of the genetic advancement of the Australian Beef Cattle herd?

About the company

The Repro Group is recognised as a premium provider of assisted reproduction services to the livestock industry. They deliver an excellent comprehensive service, accelerating genetic performance through evidence-based animal reproduction and veterinary medicine.

About the role

Due to business growth, we have an exciting opportunity for a highly organised, customer centric individual to join the team as Genetics and Operations Manager. Based at business headquarters on the Darling Downs in Allora QLD, you will be responsible for the delivery of the operational efficiency and professional image of The Repro Group's services in animal reproduction and veterinary medicine, including the management and movement of genetics storage and sales.

Key Responsibilities

- Responsible for the execution of the planned diary and schedule.
- Team leadership, coordinating and rostering of field staff.
- Inventory management
- HSE risk mitigation
- Proactive customer service and care.
- Management of genetics (semen and embryo) inventories
- Data management and integrity
- Business marketing and communications.

About you

If you've got passion, dedication, a solid livestock background, and the thought of multi-tasking and being an organisation whizz gets you energised, this is the role for you. Candidates will be highly regarded if:

- Agriculture/Animal or Veterinary Degree Qualified (or equivalent experience)
- Computer literate: Microsoft suite and database management
- Excellent communication and organisational skills
- Understanding of bovine reproduction highly desirable
- Manual drivers license.

Competitive salary reflective of experience and competency, a flexible work environment, working with a wonderful team and client base is on offer.

To Apply

Send CV and covering letter to Sophia Edwards (sophia@thereprogroup.com.au). Happy to answer any questions or have a confidential discussion regarding the role via email or phone: 0418 270 680